

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A display device includes self-luminous elements arrayed to form a display screen, and a driving circuit which causes drive currents to flow in the 5 self-luminous elements according to pixel signals. Particularly, the driving circuit is configured to restrict the drive currents flowing in the self-luminous elements upon increase in the total sum of the drive currents.